

Over 10 years of workspace and user experience optimization with KYOCERA and MyQ

Everyday performance pays off, especially when it continues over several years. This is why MyQ is proud to spotlight its more than a decade of close cooperation with KYOCERA and four years of powering the KYOCERA Net Manager with a white-labelled MyQ Solution for print management.

This alliance – between KYOCERA’s expertise in document solutions and MyQ’s specialization in print management software – brings an array of benefits to all parties: end users, KYOCERA Document Solutions, and to MyQ.

“Our partnership with MyQ places us in a leading position to offer forward-thinking KYOCERA customers a major advantage over their competitors, in the often-overlooked area of print management optimization,” said Oscar Sanchez, former Executive Vice President Sales & Marketing at KYOCERA Document Solutions Europe B.V. and newly appointed President & Chief Executive Officer of KYOCERA Document Solutions America. “The MyQ and KYOCERA Net Manager solution has saved KYOCERA customers millions by helping them to advance everyday printing processes.”

MyQ and KYOCERA’s cooperation began in September 2007 when the Japanese company started integrating the award-winning MyQ Solution into selected printers. The launch of KYOCERA Net Manager, a white-labelled variant of the MyQ Solution, pushed this combined effort to a new global level in 2014. MyQ’s partnership with KYOCERA is one of the longest in the industry, and this is reflected in the close development collaboration over the years, ensuring that MyQ and KYOCERA bring the highest level of user experience possible across the entire document solutions journey – whether printing, copying or scanning and more.

Branded as the KYOCERA Net Manager (KNM), MyQ streamlines and secures document management. Instead of hunting for an available printer, users can simply send the document to a dedicated server. The requested document is printed only after the user has logged in and selected it for printing. This increases document security, cuts time wasted in printing queues, and enables organizations to have smarter and more cost-effective management of their KYOCERA multi-functional printers. Additional advantages of MyQ and KNM include functionalities that support GDPR compliance. Both MyQ and KYOCERA also offer the convenient possibilities of remote printer access and fleet monitoring.

For end users, this key step brings them performance that benefits with enhanced document security, lower operating costs and more effective printer management. This seamless coordination frees teams to focus on their primary work tasks without wasting time fretting over their documents and office equipment.

For KYOCERA, cooperation with MyQ has increased their ability to give customers an enhanced user experience with the latest multi-functional printers.

For MyQ, bringing their solution to market under the KNM label has helped to forge a deeper working relationship with a leading device manufacturer, accelerating MyQ’s global expansion.
